

Joseph Silva

Hello, My name is Joseph Silva, but most people just call me Joe. I got interested in the Computer Science Major because it felt like something I was decent and knowledgeable about. I took some Game Design classes and learned about Agile sprint methods, I also got into Server work and IT work. I have also done stuff with Web development before for a portfolio, I haven't updated it in a few years but if you are interested in looking, the website I made is this: <https://firemission1343.github.io/>

I see myself using this course as a way to demonstrate practical techniques and workmanship for when I am able to do so in the field for a job. I also don't mind brushing up on my Web Dev skills as I feel I am a bit rusty.

If there is anything I could add is that I am completely deaf in my right ear, and I use a hearing aid in my left, so sometimes I might ask you to repeat something as I might have missed it but I am generally very good at figuring out what people say. From what I can see, you speak very clearly and loud enough for me compared to what I am used to.

I look forward to this class and to finally graduate.
